Event Announcement

Next Week: Procurement Services Fall Forums Begin

Do you want to prepare yourself for the coming year? Well then...please plan on attending one of our fall forums starting next week. With so many ongoing projects in Procurement Services, you need to attend one of these forums to stay current with new purchasing processes and to get a heads-up in what's coming in the near future.

We will be highlighting eProcurement projects and timelines in addition to opening up the floor to your questions and providing you with networking opportunities.

We have five forums scheduled at this time at five different locations including the HUB for the first time since its remodel (see below). Please take time to register here for the one that is most convenient for you. Registration is not a requirement to attend but it helps us manage attendance and insures that you will get an electronic version of the forum presentation.
